Stop The 5 Habits That Instantly Destroy Conversation Attraction

Ever had a conversation for it to quickly fizzle out, leaving an awkward silence between you both?

You immediately felt hot and bothered and even more nervous, then you frantically looked for something to say to fill the silence.

And how come some guys naturally spark attraction and the chemistry that gets women hooked to their every word?

The reason? Simple.

93% of guys make 5 fatal mistakes in their conversations with women that KILL any chance of attracting her.

Most men get flat-out rejected when they try to go for her phone number on an approach or when they try to get flirty on a date.

You leave the conversation feeling dejected and angry at another failed attempt that led nowhere.

This cycle not only erodes your confidence but can lead to men becoming over-cautious in conversations with women.

These easily-avoidable mistakes are often the difference between her BEGGING to see you again and leaving her wishing she never spoke to you.

Avoid these 5 attraction killers and you'll become one of those guys who women are naturally captivated by:

1

Lousy Body Language

Women are experts at picking up minute details and you won't get a second chance to make a compelling first impression.

The way you walk into the room, sit down and align your body to your words signal either you're alpha or a 'nice-guy.'

If you get this wrong, you have to work much harder in your conversations to make up for the lack of your magnetic first impression.

FIX: Don't hunch over, keep your back upright at all times. And when it comes to eye contact, don't dart around when talking to her. Know when to hold strong eye contact and when to break it, get this wrong, it could signal low confidence.

2

Leaking Value Too Soon

If you give her what she wants too quickly and easily, she'll disrespect you.

A cringy way 'nice-guys' do this is they smile too quickly, often and for too long. It shows you have no self-control and give away your approval without being a challenge.

Another common way guys kill the conversation attraction is to generically over compliment her while your body language sub-communicating you are taken in by her.

FIX: Take her off the pedestal and slow down, no need to rush. This will show you value yourself and it teaches her to value you too.

For a man who dates attractive women regularly, it's no big deal there is another hot woman in front of him. It's just another day in the office.

3

Dead-End Conversations

Eventually, you must get to the point - whether it be asking for her number, asking her on a date or going to the bedroom.

An endless conversation into nothingness isn't sustainable and she'll immediately sense your lack of leadership. This is an attraction crime in conversations and she will punish you.

FIX: Avoiding leadership is a natural safeguard against rejection because you've been hurt many times before. Build your courage muscle and make decisions without being so focused on the outcome. If you don't get the desired outcome, charismatically adjust and re-approach in a timely fashion.*

This is where rule four comes in.

4

Trying To Progress Too Soon

A lot of guys often ask for the phone number before the woman has shown any positive reaction to them. If your body language is on point and you are in flow, you can occasionally get numbers within minutes or seconds.

My personal best was 30 seconds to secure a number of a hottie in a private member's club and then I immediately left. But the next day, there was no response from her. She flaked out because most women want more of an investment in the connection.

Most men tend to rush the conversation on a date if they don't receive any approval signals that she likes him.

One way men may do this is by changing or adapting their point of view in the face of apparent disapproval.

Or another common way is when a man really likes her, he'll future pace the date. This means he's already talking about their future because they click and are getting on too well. This conflicts with rule two.

FIX: Seduction is the art of timing and calibrating to the other person. To be great at timing, you have to keep your anxiety and impatience under check otherwise you behave hastily.

5

Being Too Dependent On Her Approval

Don't wait around like an attentive puppy looking for approval in her response if you've complimented her or made a joke.

FIX: Move on as if it was natural in the moment and not a clear attempt to get her reaction.

6

BONUS

No Steel, No Attraction

If you lack assertiveness or balls of steel, your conversation won't touch her emotional peaks.

If you cannot stretch her emotions, you will fail to trigger the necessary chemicals that awaken her sexual attraction.

You'll feel bland like all the other spineless guys hitting on her.

Strong, assertive men effortlessly build attraction with women. However, their work in the background requires an effort that you can easily learn and emulate.

FIX: Wake her up from the dead conversation trance by demonstrating you are not a pushover or you can be easily swayed.*

To become assertive, you need specific training to remove the blind spots and fear.

Most nice guys hit a boiling point and then lash out, this is not being assertive.

HI, I'M FAISAL

I used to be a socially shy and awkward tech geek.

Spending a lot of time behind a computer machine, I wasn't your natural conversationalist. And had no idea to escalate a normal conversation into a romantic one where she'd feel attraction for me. It was completely another language.

After a crushing divorce, I discovered I suffered from the "nice-guy-syndrome" and that sucked. I tried too hard to please women and was too weak to stand up for myself. I was a feminised man. Not attractive.

After much struggle, I turned my life around to regularly have fulfilling relationships, hot sex and overcome my nice-guy-syndrome.

Eventually, I trained as a life coach to help awesome men like me to overcome the 'nice-guy-syndrome' and become the charismatic masculine man that unapologetically bosses love, sex and life.
